A Love That Changes Everything

By: Sarah Stoltzfus

This year, February 1st feels like my January 1st, anyone else? Between jumping back into the rhythm of life after the holidays-and then having everything come to a sudden halt with the ice storm-I'm finally finding my footing and I think I'm ready for all that 2026 holds.

The ice storm was a reminder of how quickly things can change. With freezing temperatures coming our way, we prepared as best we could-stocking up, opening cabinets and making plans-yet still wondering if we did enough.

And yet, when I looked at the beautiful white outside in the stillness, the Lord stirred something in my heart.

His love for us isn't just sufficient-it's significant.

It doesn't merely sustain us through difficult seasons. It propels us forward in faith, fully alive and ready for what's ahead.

Neither height nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Romans 8:39

A love that cannot be separated from us is a love that transforms us. It steadies us when circumstances feel unsteady, unknown and uncertain. It reminds us that even when we feel immobilized by what's happening around us, He is immovable- not shaken, surprised, or distant.

So, if January felt stalled...if you feel like you're just now exhaling...if you're starting again in February-you're not behind. You're right on time.
