Leadership Lessons from the Wright Brothers: Part 2

Calling Matters More Than Credentials

Creek Kids Leaders,

Reading McCullough's The Wright Brothers, it's clear how unlikely these two men were. They had no engineering degrees, no formal training, and no funding. They ran a bicycle shop on a dusty corner in Dayton. In the evenings, they studied bird flight and German research papers, teaching themselves everything they needed to know. What they lacked in credentials, they made up for in calling, curiosity, and steady work.

Pastor Dave

You may not feel naturally gifted or officially qualified for ministry. But God has always used ordinary people who offer Him a willing heart.

“God has chosen the foolish things of the world to shame the wise.” — 1

Corinthians 1:27

Thank you for giving God your “yes” and trusting Him to use you.

Blessings,

Dave
